Our vision

Improving health through people

HPMA believes that every health and care organisation should excel in the way that they manage their people. Great people management leads to improved health outcomes and quality of care, resulting in a healthier and more cared for nation.

- People caring for people
- People managing people
- Health and care organisations caring for their people.

HPMA aims to set the culture for great people management for great care, supporting professionals involved in people management to deliver great people management and great care, every day.

Supporting our people to deliver the best possible healthcare.
