This session is a very practical and up to date review of the many lessons to be learned from handling whistleblowing cases. If you have asked yourself:

- when should we categorise a complaint as a "speaking up" concern?
- how should we respond to a personal issue raised through the Raising Concerns Policy?
- which policy should we use when an employee raises a concern about a bullying and harassment or a bullying culture through the Speak Up Guardian and how do we ensure that we are sighted on whether bullying is properly recorded and tackled in our organisation?

then this session will provide you with answers and practical tips.
